BARKIS IS WILLING. GOVERNOR FOWLE ON NEGRO EMI-

INDIFFERENT AS TO THE EXODUS If the Colored People Go God Speed Them. and if They Do Not Go They Will be Protected,

RALEIGH, N. C., September 27.—[Special.]— Recently an account of what purported to be an interview with Governor Fowle, of this state, regarding the negro exodus, was tele-graphed from Hot Springs. This stated that Governor Fowle gave it as his opinion that it was desirable that the negroes should leave North Carolina. In fact, no such opinion was intended to be expressed by the governor to suppose. Your correspondent today had

AN INTERVIEW WITH THE GOVERNOR, who said a remark made as to the undesirability of a large negro population in the mountain section of North Carolina was taken as if cable to the whole state. The governor had always expressed, both publicly and pri-vately, his kindly feeling towards the colored in eastern North Carolina it is perhaps the best labor that can be obtained. In regard to the exodus, he has stated repeatedly that he had advised the colored people last spring to send a delegation of their own race to the state they proposed to make their home, and ascertain if their condition would be improved by a change, and act upon the re-port. He stated further that if, after due consideration, they proposed to leave North Carolina, they were entirely free, and that no osition on the part of any of the state au-

THEIR PROPOSED REMOVAL, but if they were determined to go, that he hoped they would go by detachments, and not all at once, as the farming interests of the eastern counties would be greatly damaged by a wholesale removal, but in the event that they all left at once, he believed the state would soon recuperate by an immigration from the farming element of the northern states, and in a few years North Carolina would be more prosperous than ever. The governor further said that if the colored people saw fit to move from North Carolina, he hoped prosperity ould be with them in their new home; that If they remained here they were entitled to and would receive the

of the state, but that he did emphatically deny the statement, made by northern demagogu that only one thing will raise the ire of the southern whites, so quick as the thought of the negro exercising the power of a citizen, and that is the fear of his emigration. The governor stated in conclusion that in his opin ion no calamity would be all the state either in the event of the negroes leaving the state or their remaining in it. oesn't Want the Indians, Either. RALEGIL N. C., September 27.—Governor Fowle, in reply to the letter from the secretary of war suggesting the removal of Indians at Mount Vernon barracko to the mountain section of North Carolina, expresses disapproval of the proposition, as that section is in process of rapid settlement by the whites, and suggests that the Indians be located on the abandoned lands of Vermont.

IT WILL BE A GRAND PICNIC. The South American Delegates to be Shown

Around. PHILADELPHIA, September 27.-A train of Pullman cars, which, in its appointments and in arrangements for journey, is believed to be without a precedent in the history of railroading, will leave Washington on Thursday next, bearing representatives of American nations to the international conference to be held next month at the national capital. The party, as meets of the government are to be taken guests of the government, are to be taken over a large section of the United States, in order that they may see and appreciate, to some extent, the vast resources of this country.

CONGRESS AUTHORIZED IT. secretary of state to invite delegates from all South and Central American nations to a vention to be held in Washington, Novemconvention to be held in Washington, November 14th, for the purpose of discussing reciprocal commercial and financial interests of the countries represented. In connection with this measure congress appropriated $125,000 for the expenses of the convention. Under this authority, and as preliminary to the convention, the state department organized this tour of commercial and manufacturing cities of the United States, with the prime object of showing the visitors the great natural reshowing the visitors the great natural re-sources of the country. The Pennsylvania Railroad company agreed to undertake the task of arranging and carrying on the details

It is unique in at least two respects, namely, in that there will be no change of cars through-out the entire distance of 5,046 miles, and this out the entire distance of 5,046 miles, and this will be the first known instance where railways have permitted an entire train, with its own engine, crew, etc., to pass from other roads over their lines. The amount of labor requisite to bring this about will be appreciated when it is known that in the forty-two days' journeying the train will pass over the main lines of thirty different railway corporations, passing through the states of Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Maine, Connecticut, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri and Kentucky, twenty in all.

For the purposes of the journey the Penn-sylvania Railroad company have equipped a train of seven Pullman vestibule cars, five Train of seven ruinman vestibule cars, and seleepers, a dining car and a composite car. The train will carry an ample supply of provisions, but necessary supplies of fresh meats, vegetables, etc., will be taken up at principal markets of country traversed. The locomotive will be one of the company's standard, of the latest pattern and built at the Altoon shops. It is counted not to furnish steam as the latest pattern and built at the Altoona shops. It is equipped not only to furnish steam as the motive power, but for heating as well, and to operate the air-brakee. It will be in charge of a mechanical engineer from Altoona. As has been said, there will be no change of the crew during the tour. The engineer who will open the throttle at 8:15 a.m. in the station at Washington on Thursday next, October 3d, will also apply the air-brakes at the conclusion of his long run of 5,046 miles on November 30th. A crew of twenty-six men will be required to run the train which, as it stands, represents a cost of $150,000.

Chicago Preparing for Them.
Chicago Preparing for Them.
Chicago, Ill., September 27.—The general committee to entertain the delegates to the Three Americas' convention holds its first meeting this afternoon. All leading clubs in the city and other influential interests were represented. John M. Clark was elected chairman, and H. N. Higgin, secretary. Five sub-committees were appointed on railroads, hotel, finance, transportation, banquet and carriages—also an executive committee composed of the chairman and secretary of general committee and the chairman of each sub-committee. Various plans discussed were each on scale giving assurance that the distinguished visitors will have a royal welcome.

Bad Accident on the New York Central Railroad.

PALATINE BRIDGE, N. Y., September 28.—
The St. Louis express No. 5, which left Albany at 10 o'clock last night, met with a bad acci dent about two miles east of here at about midnight. The first section broke down and stopped for repairs. The rear brakeman was sent back to signal the second section, but for some reason failed to perform his duty. The engineer of the second section says he did not see him, and the first he saw was the lights of the first section directly in front of him. The first section was made up of a baggage, mail, express and three passenger cars, packed with people, and a Wagner sleeper on the end.

The second section telescoped into the first section, knocking out the lights and plunging everything into darkness. Up to this hour, (2 a. m.) four bodies have been taken out of the sleeper, and it is leared the total number of deaths will run up to twenty five, and possibly more, as the car was full. It is difficult to get

Schooner Newport, R. I., September 27.—Steamer Providence, of the Old Colony line, was i collision, last evening, with the three-master schooner Avis, Captain Farnsworth, of St. John, for New York. She came into her dock ans morning late in consequence, and with her starboard side forward of the paddlewheel open for sixty feet. The accident oc-curred about 8 o'clock off Schyler's light, twenty-five miles from New York. The pilot of the steamer claims that the schooner dis

The schooner had her wheel head carried away. The Providence came to anchor at once and sent two small boats in which the crew of the schooner were taken off and landed on Hart island. It was found that the captain of the schooner was badly injured by the wheel, the force of the collision taking, out every spoke. The Providence came through all right with her side open, the sea having only aslight swell and the steamer being kept well over to port. Passengers on the starboard side were somewhat frightened, but some on the port side did not know of the collision till morning. One state room had its floor ripped out, and an old lady who occupied the room fell through from her bed to the deck below, landing on some bags uninjured.

A BIG DEAL

Tennessee and Alabama Capitalists Unite in NASHVILLE, Tenn., September 27.—[Special.]-A number of prominent Tennessee cal.]—A number of promment Tennessee and Alabama capitalists have, for several days, been in consultation, in this city, with a view of organizing a mining and manufacturing company, which will be the largest in the south, exceeding even the Tennessee Coal and Iron company. The details of a preliminary character have required a good deal of time in these discussions and arrangements, but they have been settled to the satisfaction of the gentlemen interested, and they left for Alabama this evening to effect a corporate organization of the company.

The deal is the most important which has occurred in this section. The full details are not now obtainable, but the plan embraces the consolidation of the LaGrange, Ætna, Warner Furnace companies, the Roane Iron company, of Chettences the Wooden for the Company of Chettences the Montage of the Company of Chettences the Montage of the Company of Chettences the Montage of the the Mont consolidation of the LaGrange, Ætna, Warner Furnace companies, the Roane Iron company, of Chattanooga, the Wayne County Iron company and other properties. Six furnaces now in operation are involved in the deal, and many thousand acres of fine ore lands in Hickman, Stewart and Wayne counties. The main object is to manufacture charcoal, iron and steel on a big scale and to establish a steel rail mill. The ultimate object is reported to be the consolidation of all the charcoal furnaces in Tennessee and Alabama in a tremendous combination. Steel rails are not now made south of the Ohio river, and the importance of this movement may be seen at a glance. It is said that the amount of bonds to be issued with first installment will be $3,000,000, and $6,000,000 of stock. Among the prominent actors in the deal are A. M. Shook, G. M. Fogg, John P. Williams, Charles McGee, of Knoxville; T. T. Hillman, of Birmingham; John P. White, Nat. Baxter, James C. and Percy Warner and John H. Inman. It is understood that Nat. Baxter, Jr., will be president of the new compady, and A. M. Shook, manager, and that it will be called the Southern Iron company.

Chicago Merchants Subscribing to the World's Fair.

CHICAGO. September 27.—Today was a red-letter day in the subscription department of the Chicago world's fair project. F. J. Lehman drew a check for $50,000; John V. Farwell followed suit to the extent of $25,000, and James H. Walker, Carson Pierie, Scott & Co., and Mandel Bros. each, put themselves down for a similar amount. Siegel, Cooper & Co., Morganthan, Labold & Co., C. W. & E. Pardidge, and Schlessinger & Mayer, between them, put up $50,000. This, with the subscription of $100,000 by Marshall Field, makes a total of $300,000 subscribed by the dry goods merchants. It is expected that $100,000 additional will be secured from other houses in the same line within a day or two.

THREATS TO LYNCH A SHERIFF And Burn the Town of Pratt Mines—The Cause of the Trouble—Sheriff Smith and Military Go to the Scene

BIRMIMGHAM, Ala., September 27.—[Special.]—Sheriff Smith left for Pratt mines at 11 o'clock tonight with a strong civil posse and the Jefferson Volunteers, to quell a reported attempt to lynch Deputy Sheriff Maxwell. From the most reliable reports obtainable at this time, it seems that several hundred negroes at the mines have armed themselves and threaten to lynch Maxwell and burn the town. The white people became much alarmed, and sent messengers to the city begging the sheriff to send them help as quickly as possible. A train from the mines, arriving he at 10 o'clock, brought in about two hundred women and children, who are

SERKING SAFETY IN THE CITY.

The trouble seems to have grown out of the killing of a negro woman tonight by Deputy Sheriff Maxwell. The circumstances of the killing are that the negro woman went to Maxwell's house and cursed his wife. He came up, and when the negress refused to stop cursing, Maxwell struck her on the head with a piece of plank. One report says she is dead and another that she is still living, but will die. It is said the negroes at the mines have been very troublesome of late, and

BIRMINGHAM'S REGULAR REPORT. Two Accidents, a Murder and a Lynching

-A Deputy Sheriff Killed. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., September 27 .- Death has reaped a harvest in Jefferson county to-day. This morning George Estes got caught in a fly-wheel of the rolling-mill at Gate City and was beaten to pieces. He leaves a family. To-day W. Benton, an employe of the Pullman Car company was walking back wards behind a car in the Georgia Pacific yard. The ear was disconnected and moving slowly, and he was trying to stop it with a crow-bar. He fell across the track and his body was cut in twain.

Two Men Killed BIRMINGHAM, Ala., September 27 .- [Speial]-About 11 o'clock this morning Deputy Sheriff King Vann was shot and instantly killed by John Steele, a negro, and four hours later the murderer was overtaken by a posse and his body riddled with bullets. Vann had and his body riddled with bullets. Vann had a warrunt for the negro's arrest, and, meeting him near the city, attempted to arrest him. Steele was armed with a shotgun, and without a word, poured the entire load through the officer's body. The murderer flod, but bloodhounds were secured and the trail was easily followed. When close pressed by the dogs the negro threw down his gun and sought refuge in a tree. At sight of the armed posse pursuing him. Steele leaped from the tree and started to run. Before he made three steps his body was riddled with bullets, and he fell dead. The murdered deputy was one of the most popular officers in the county. He leaves a family.

BLACK BART'S ESCAPE.

The Stage Robber Pursued by a Sheriff and Posse.
Bessemer, Mich., September 27.—The Goebic stage robber, Reimund Holzhay, othergebic stage robber, Reimund Holzhay, other-wise known as "Black Bart," together with several other prisoners, made his escape from the county jail here this morning. He was brought here from Republic, where he was a rrested some days ago for holding up a Goge-bic stage and murdering one of its occupants, Mr. Fleishbein, of Illinois. The sheriff has called a posse comitating to pursue the frightive and the posse comitatus to pursue the fugitive and telegraphed to all neighboring points to intercept him. Citizens are much excited and are turning out in large numbers to join in the man hunt. It is also said that blood hounds have been telegraphed for to take up the trail.

JEALOUS OF HIS WIFE.

mits Suicide.

Bradford, Pa., September 27.—Yesterday morning John A. Quinn, a well known citizen of Mount Alton, became jealous of his wife and shot her five times in the breast and abdomen with a Winchester repeating rifle, 42 calibre. The woman died in great agony two hours later. Quinn tried to kill Martin Brennan, who he accused wrongfully of intimacy with his wife, but Brenan escaped from him anp hid in the woods. After a desperate struggle, Quinn was disarmed by Constable Washburn and placed under arrest. He was put in a cell and committed suicide by hanging during the night. The suicide and murderer will be buried with his wife Sunday, in this city. Quinn was a tall powerful man, aged 63. His wife was six years younger. He had been married to his wife whom he murdered thirty years. They raised a family of ten children, ranging in age from six to twenty-seven, all living and highly respected.

Exchanging Shots on a Moving Train.

Chehaw, Ala., September 27.—[Special.]—
Today as train No. 51 from Montgomery to Atlanta was leaving Chehaw, the negro train hand, Ed Willis, got into a difficulty with another negro. Willis was standing on the rear platform of the last sleeper, and as the train pulled out he and the other negro, who was standing near the depot, exchanged several shots. A number of parties were standing near the combatants, but no damage was done. The sheriff would have liked very much to have gotten hold of Willis, but by the time the shooting was over the train was moving at a lively pace, and Willis went on unmolested.

BURKE IS COMING

thing He is Ready to Settle-Will Sail for America at Once.

London, September 27.—A representative the Associated Press called upon Major E. A. Burke, of New Orleans, ex-treasurer of the state of Louisiana, at his hotel this morning Major Burke was very busily engaged in the dispatch of necessary business, preparatory to his departure for America on the Etruria to-morrow. When asked if he desired to make larity in connection with state bonds when he pressed regret that he was not in a condition to give full information. He had no knowledge of the charges that had been made, or of the present situation at New Orleans, except such as had been conveyed to him in a few brist cable dispatches. These were not ade quate enough to enable him fully to understand what allegations had been made, nor upon what ground. He had gathered from them, however, that the situation was of sufficien gravity to make it highly expedient for him TO RETURN TO AMERICA AT ONCE.

This would involve the abandonment, for the present, of important business interests in London which would be likely to result in serious pecuniary loss. But he did not hesi-tate to make the sacrifice for he felt that he must hasten home, in order to meet at once any question that might arise touching his administration of the office of state tres during the nine years of his incumbency.

Major Burke emphasizes the fact that it was at his special request that the com-mittee of inquiry examined singly every coupon that had been paid. He denies that he ever paid any invalid coupons. A small num-ber of coupons, he declares, were put aside and were never paid. These are now in his possession and will show for themselves. He expressed a determination on his return to go fully into the whole matter, as he realizes the seriousness of the situation.

But he thought it undesirable, if not impossible, to discuss such an involved question intelligently in London. He preferred to wait till he reached home, and had time enough for full information. In conclusion, he said, with emphasis:

"If it can be shown that I am indebted to the state of Louisina in any way, I am ready to make the indebtedness good."

St. Louis. September 27.—Important depositions bearing on the great strike of 1886 were taken yesterday and when the result becomes known in Knights of Labor circles, it is likely known in Knights of Labor circles, it is likely to cause a lasge sized row. The recent war between Mortimer T. Shaw, of this city, and Master Workman Powderly, in which a number of prominent knights of this city became involved and which is bringing Master Workman Powderly and his entire executive board to St. Louis, is really the cause which has led to the present effect. The depositions taken were from a number of dissatisfied knights who, having been inside of the affairs of the great strike have been able to give testimony of great importance to the Missouri Pacific railway, which will be used in defense of the damage suits instituted by the men prosecuted for the Wyandotte train wrecking. The depositions contain startling charges against the leaders of the knights, among other things is an alleged plot to blow up the big Eads bridge an alleged plot to blow up the big Eads bridge

For Several Lives Lost, and Brooding Over I Drove Him Insane

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., September 27.—Joseph C. Harvey, a well known mill owner of this city, was sent to the Friends' asylum for insane at Frankford today. Eight years ago the Randoloh mill, owned by him, was destroyed by fire, and fifteen persons, mostly young girls, lost their lives. The building was unprovided with fire escapes, and to this fact was due the great loss of life. Not long after the fire Harvey began to show signs of mental unsoundness, caused, it is said, by constant brooding over the loss traceable to his neglect to properly provide for the safety of his employes, and he had gradually grown worse until within the past week, when a number of prominent phy sicians decided that he had better be placed in an asylum. The unfortunate man is at present owner of several mills and is very wealthy.

The Socialists' Convention.

CHICAGO, September 27.—The international socialistic labor movement convention, with delegates from every state and territory, will convene here temorrow and hold a four days' session. It will be the first national convention of the organization in the five years agitation, and the public excitement following the arrest, trial and execution of the anarchists prevented the movement from culminating last year. The execution of the anarchists will be taken up, and they will be, duly cannonized as martyrs.

Fired by Electricity.

PITTSBUBG, Pa., September 27.—The large building of the Westinghouse Electric company, situated on Duquesne way and Allegheny, and almost in the heart of the city, was partially destroyed by fire tonight, entailing a loss of $100,000. The building is a five-story brick. The laboratory is situated in the second story. Here the fire originated, and completely guited the third and fourth floors. Both floors were filled with fine electrical machinery, which is so badly injured that it will all have to be replaced. The loss is fully covered by insurance. Westinghouse gives employment to about 2,000 men in this building. The work of rebuilding will be begun at once. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is supposed to have been caused by electricity. Fired by Electricity

CRESCO, Ia., September 27.—This city was yesterday visited by a terrible fire that burned all the buildings on both sides of Main street north of the courthouse and J. B. Coward's store. Twenty-five business places are in ashes. The loss is heavy, but the figures are not complete.

Louisville, Ky., September 27.—The new sawmills belonging to the Ohio Falls Carworks at Jeffersonville, Ind., were burned this morning. The flames were discovered about miduight, and a call was sent to Louisville for assistance. Two enginess were sent over the river and succeeded in saving the carworks shops. The Molten Metal Accident.

PITTSBURG, September 27.-The men in jured in the molten metal accident at the Thompson steel works last night, with probably two exceptions, are out of danger. Superintendent William F. Jones is suffering a great deal from his wounds, but will recover. The fleshiess body of Michael King, the missing Hungarian, was found about midnight embedded in the hot steel. It is stated that the lives of all the men about the furnace were saved by an unknown man, who with wonderful presence of mind, turned the valve and shut off the blast as soon as the break occurred.

DEATH IN A DUNGEON

A WOMAN'S WIERD END IN A CHURCH

MOUNT VERNON'S GREAT MYSTERY

A Delicate Woman Discovered Dying of Starvation-Two Months in a Dark, Damp Cellar-The Priest's Story.

From the New York Press.

The emaciated remains of a woman reduced almost to a skeleton were lying in the morgue at Mt. Vernon yesterday, the object of intense interest to the neighborhood. For two months she had existed in a dark, slimy cellar under the Catholic church of the Sacred Heart, in that village, where she was found dead or

For two months rumors have been floating about the village that there was a ghost in the church. Boys who played about the edifice told their parents in awe-struck whisper that the place was haunted. A wild creature with gleaming eyes had looked at them from one gleaming eyes had looked at them from one of the little cellar windows. Their parents laughed at the stories. Then the boys grew bolder, and when they saw the white, staring face again they threw stones at it.

One evening a stone struck the window and the white face quickly disappeared. Two of the boys, one a youth of fourteen, named Archer, and the other the son of John Howland, janitor of the grammar school opposite, told their fathers of the affair. One evening early in July Janitor Howlands saw the face at the window, but it never appeared again after the boys threw stones at it. A short while afterward Mr. Howland saw a woman come out of the basement of the church in the rear and go to the pump near by to get water. Several times he saw her. He told David Kirby, formerly janitor of the church, about it.

times he saw her. He told David Kirby, for-merly jaintor of the church, about it. Kerby laughed and told his friends that Howland was going daft. He saw spocks in the holy church forsooth. And so all the vil-lage laughed about the ghost in the church. Howland said nothing more. This ridicule closed his mouth effectually, though the ap-paration troubled his mind.

THE HORRIBLE DISCOVERY. Father James T. Coles, pastor of the church, vas sitting in his study Saturday night with his nephew, John Grady, who is the janitor of the church. They heard low means com-

of the church. They heard low means coming from the basement.

"We got a lantern and went to the cellar," said Father Coles. "Grady went first. 'Here she is,' he called, and I went over to a pile of evergreens near the stairs. There lay the poor creature. She startled me at first with her large, staring eyes and her fearful appearance, for she was a living skeleton. I saw she was dying, and I sent for Dr. Ferris.

"Are you a Protestant,' I asked.

"She shook her head.

"Are you a Catholic?"

"Are you a Froband.

"Are you a Catholic?"

"Yes, came the whispered response.
"I asked her if she desired the last sacraments, and on her assenting by a nod I administered them. She nodded her head again when I asked her if she was Irish, and then she died. We placed the poor creature upon a church cushion and carried her up stairs."

It is a foul place, that cellar—dark, gloomy and grewsome. Two streams of water trickle through it, and moisture drips from furgus growth upon the stone walls. A dim, uncertain light filters fitfully through the long, cobweb-covered windows. Hundreds of rats scurry about boldly, and thousands of worms crawl slimily about. There is a door in the rear of the basement, which leads to the yard. The key was on the inside, and turned easily.

asily.

It was in this place that the woman had lived two months or more.

She wore a dark striped plaid dress, black overskirt, white skirt and waist. They bore overskirt, white skirt and waist. They bore grimy evidence of contact with the wet clay on the bottom of the cellar. In parts they were gnawed by the rats and worm eaten, leaving ragged edges. Her feet were bare. The foliage of the evergreen branches had long since failen away, and upon the bare twigs the woman had been lying for hours, perhaps days, unable to move, her frail body having pressed the branches into a sort of rough couch. Near her on the ground was found a five-dollar bill cov on the ground was found a five-dollar bill covered with mold and half eaten away. A little russet leather bag, containing a pocketbook, in which was another five-dollar bill and thirty cents in silver, was also found.

DIED OF STARVATION.

In the sachel was a letter addressed to Louis Turgis, a dealer in Catholic books and images in Barclay street. Articles of underwear and in Barclay street. Articles of underwear and a shawl strap were lying beside her. The rats and worms had nearly destroyed them. Her shoes bore the mark of a Fifth avenue shoemaker and had evidently not been worn for weeks, as the insides were covered with mold. Not the slighest clew to her identity is revealed by any of these articles, and so far the body is wholly unidentified.

Dr. Goodwin's autopsy showed the lungs to have been diseased. The stomach was terribly inflamed, and the woman had evidently not eaten food for many days. She had died of starvation.

eaten food for many days. She had died of starvation.

The emaciation of the woman's body is something terrible to behold. The skin seems to be stretched over the bones like that of a mummy. She had wasted away. Lying in the morgue she appears to be about twenty-five years old. Heavy masses of beautiful copper-colored hair are matted on her head. Her eyes are very large and very blue, and even in death have not lost the frightened expression that made the villagers think her a ghost. Her hands are slender and well formed. Around her neck were Catholic scapulars and an Agnus Dei. Her face is that of an intelligent Irish girl. Her clothing is that of a woman in comfortable circumstances and of quiet tastes.

quiet tastes WHY DID SHE SEEK THE CELLAR? An inquest was begun by the coroner yesterday and adjourned for one week to await

The only clew to the woman's arrival in Mt. The only clew to the woman of the Vernon is furnished by the boys playing about the church, who said that John Grady once the church. Father the church, who said that John Grady once drove the woman from the church. Father Coles said to the Press reporter that Grady told him he never saw the woman until last Saturday night. No one save Howland and the boys as mentioned ever saw the woman in Mt. Vernon before her discovery while dying. Only one or two of those who live near the church had ever heard of her, and they thought the reports imaginative. The woman never applied to any of the neighboring houses for food and there was no food found in the cellar. Willie King, a boy of fifteen, who works in William Buckley's butcher shop, a block away, said a woman came to the shop Friday afternoon about 1 o'clock and begged for a pound of steak for her mother. She looked ill. He identified the woman at the morgue as the same woman.

and was evidently insane.

There was a report current that the dead woman is Miss Virginia M. Wagner, the Brooklyn school teacher who disappeared July 3. The two women are not at all alike. The dead woman at Mt. Vernon is five feet two inches tall. Miss Wagner is five feet nine inches tall. The dead woman's hair is curly and her features delicate. Miss Wagner's hair was straight and her features almost masculine. So far the affair is clouded in mystery.

Quebec, September 27.—Another fissure is visible in the overhanging rocks, and the cliff is somewhat bulged out. The kicek at the end of Dufferin terrace is also inclining over gradually. It is the general opinion that a couple days more of rain or nights of frost will result in another land slide. Notwithstanding this, the city authorities are having a roadway bulle over the fallen rocks, just as if there was not the least danger.

The Fair Continues to Attract Great Crowds.

Sparta. Ga., September 27.—[Special.]— of triumph. Their faces seem to say to every one who meets them: "We have done better than ever before."

In Agricultural hall the exhibits are remarkable. The general impression is that D. J. Bush leads in this department. Indeed it is confidently said by many that he has here the finest individual display ever made in Hanceck by one man. His corn, pumpkins, cats, wheat, honey and butter are unsurpassable, and he will yield to the Importunity of friends and carry it to the Macon fair in October.

Captain R. B. Baxter also has a splendid exhibit in this department, which has been arranged with great taste and shows to great advantage. Then there is Mr. E. F. Pound, who has heretofore won prizes, who is still in the field with his crops and hams. Captain E. F. Moore has on one corner a fine display of corn, home cured hams and bacon, apples, etc., which is highly attractive and creditable. Mr. W. L. Coleman, Sr., is the champion ham grower of the county, having some two-years-old specimens in a perfect state of preservation weighing about fifty pounds each, and some of a younger variety almost as large. Wesley A. Bass has also a large and most creditable display of farm products from the Devereaux section, which is what might be expected of one of the most successful farmers of the county.

of the county.

William Stevens has some wonderful corn;
forty ears of which will make a bushel.

In Floral hall the eye meets nothing but beauty and taste.

On the right as you enter is Miss Zee Brown's splendid display of canned goods and fancy work, which cannot be surpassed.
Miss Jeannette Wilson has on the left canned goods, jellies, cakes, bread and needlework, etc., which is one of the most extensive ever shown at one of our fairs.

Macon Relies Upon Her Superior Claims for the Location.

Macot, Ga., September 27.—[Special.]—The committee of the alliance having in charge the location of the exchange, and of which Hon. Felix Corput is chairman, did not arrive this morning as was expected, but will be here tomorrow morning. So far, Macon has made no bid for the location of the exchange here, but relies solely on her superior advantages as a central locality for such an enterprise. The committee is composed of clear headed business men. and they will hardly be governed by any money consideration, but will look to the general interest of the alliance in the location, and therefore Macon's chances are excellent. The county alliance will meet tomorrow, and Mr. W. M. Francis, of Philadelphia, who came to Macon for that purpose alone, will submit to the alliance prices for kainit and other fertilizers. The alliance is getting more thoroughly organized, and everything now is being done in a business-like manner. They will doubtless succeed in making almost their own terms with the fertilizer men for the coming year.

Ordered Back to Quarantine. Savannah, Ga., September 27.—[Special.]—
The sanitary board today ordered the British steamer Cairngorn to leave the city and go back to quarantine. The ship is from Venezuela, by way of New York. Twelve days ago there was a suspicious death on board.
Health Officer Brunner had the ship Immigated twice at quarantine and then let her come up.
Now, that the vessel has departed, there is no danger. The sanitary board reversed the health officer's action and ordered her back a few hours after her arrival up the river.

tenced to pay a fine of $200 or to work four months on the chaingang.

Franklin is from Atlanta.

It will be remembered that about two months ago Franklin and a man by the name of Roberts duped a young countryman by the name of Dollar for a considerable sum of money. They represented that they were in the employ of the United States government, and gaining Dollar's confidence, he was induced to cash a check that one of them signed.

Roberts, the accomplice, escaped, but Franklin was arrested, and Mr. Steinheimer, knowing his father, went on his bond, but subsequently surrendered him, and he has since been lying in jail.

A Narrow Escape from Lynching.

Americus, Ga., September 27. — [Special.]—
Will Williams, the negro who brutally murdered Bartow Whigham, a railroad conductor, near this city in June, had a narrow escape from lynching at Abbeville last night, whither he had been taken for trial for the crime. A party of thirty determined white citizens of Wilcox county had assembled for the purpose of lynching the black fiend, but cooler heads prevailed on them to desist. Williams's trial was postponed for two weeks on account of an absent witness. He was brought to Americus and placed in jail for safe keeping until the case is disposed of.

The Girls Must Be Provided For

The Girls Must Be Provided For.
From the Brunswick, Ga., Times.
The present legislature will do well if it passes the bill establishing a technological school for girls. Georgia is behind the civilized world in failing to equip her girls for the battle of life with a good education, not theoretical alone but practical, one which will enable them to carn an honest living when necessity requires it. On principals of economy alone, the school schould be established, for in no other way can so large a number of dependents or unskilled workers be made skilled producers of weath. But simple justice demands that the favors which the state showers so laylshly on her sons should extend to the daughters also. This legislature may not act, may not admit the imperative demand of the people for the higher education and practical training of the girls of the state for some kind of self-supporting labor. But that public attention is being directed to this subject, and that thinking men recognize its importance, no one can doubt, and sooner or later the girl of Georgia will receive that help for which their very helplessness is the strongest appeal. very helplessness is the strongest appeal.

In Favor of Protecting the Colored People From the Thomasville, Ga., Times,
The Constitution was right in denouncing

THE CONSTITUTION was right in denouncing the East Point outrages. No resolutions to the contrary will change public sentiment. The masses of the people of Georgia are in favor of protecting the colored people in their every legal right. We hope This Constitution will not lower its colors, but keep up the fight against men, whether they be white or black, who take the law into their own hands. There is only one crime which justifies mob law, and guilt in this case should be established beyond a shadow of a doubt. Let the law take its course. This is the citizen's safeguard. To depart from this course is to imperil the lives and property of the people. The citizens of the state indorse the course of The Constitution in this matter. TION in this matter.

The Farmers Will Come Out,

From the Albeny, GarNews.

The recent passage of a bill by the general assembly making the office of commissioner of agriculture elective instead of, as heretofore, agriculture elective instead of, as heretofore, by executive appointment, will have a most wonderful effect upon state politics. It means that the farmer is coming to the front politically, and that his power will be felt more in future contests. This class of our people will be interested especially in the election of the commissioner of agriculture. As a result they will flock to the polls, mass meetings, etc., to nominate for this position their choice. They will turn out in larger numbers than has been the custom in the past, for they will now feel that they have a personal interest in the political contents. thot they have a personal interest in the polit-

A Large Rattlesnake.

A Large Rattlesnake.

Stone Mountain. Ga., September 23.—
[Special.]—Asbury Turner, a colored man living around the north side of the mountain, brought into town Sunday a huge rattlesnake that he had just killed. His snakeship measured five feet long and eight inches around its body. It carried fifteen rattles and a button, making him, so Asbury says, seventeen years old. Asbury says he has made arrangements with an "Indian doctor" in Atlanta to take all the rattlers he could get. He says he is going to take him to the "doctor" and expects to realize $$ or $10 out of his Sunday's work.

The Health of Rev. Sam Jones.

The Health of Rev. Sam Jones.

From the Cattersville, Ga., Express.

A startling report has been published in many of the papers concerning the health of Rev. Sam P. Jones. While the evangelist has not been in his usual health, the report is greatly exaggerated. The rest he is now taking will perhaps straighten him out and he will resume his labor with his old time vigor. Mr. Jones will not commence regular work until the 8th of October, when he will open a meeting at Durham, N. C. He has canceled his engagements at Moberly, Mo., and other places.

Looking Out for Three Offenders,

Looking Out for Three Offenders.
From the Athens, Ga., Banner.
The young boys under twenty-one years of age are very much distressed over the recent bill to prohibit them from the use of tobacco. One young boy who has hardly been relieved from long dresses asked Captain Oliver what he would do with him if he caught him smoking a cigarette. Captain Oliver informed the little boy that he would not make a case against him, but would give him a good spanking. The police are on the lookout for three young offenders against the recent law, and we may expect to have a larger number up before the courts.

The Price of a Barrel of Sugar. The Price of a Barrel of Sugar.
From the Waynesboro, Ga., Herald.
Mr. E. A. Carter, of this city, while looking over some of his old papers the other day, came across a bill for a barrel of sugar bought by himself in Augusta in 1865. It is written on very common brown letter paper, without printing of any kind, and reads as follows:

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 12, '65.
Mr. E. A. Carter:

MR. E. A. CARTER:
BOUGHT OF C. V. WALKER & CO.,
1 Bbl. Sugar 250%—18—232% @ $25.00
Received payment.
C. V. WALKER & Co., per H. C. Gerke. The Constitution Indorsed.

The Constitution Indorsed.

From the Covington, Ga., Star.

The Star most heartily indorses every word of Henry Grady's magnificent editorial in The Constitution of last Friday, having for its basis the recent gross outrages at East Point. The position taken by Mr. Grady on those outrages is one that meets the hearty indorsement of the good people of Georgia, and places The Constitution upon the high and just plane of "Wisdom, Justice and Moderation," which is so characteristic of the true Georgian.

The Truth About Pledger. From the Dalton, Ga., Citizen.

Pledger is a bad citizen, and his appointment would be a calamity.

Mr. W. C. White is an engineer on a bon on the Arkansas iver, and his a dress is Little Rock. He says that S. S. S. Lis relieved him of blood poison, which was be result of malaria, and that it prevents alls and fever by toning up the system. He takes it in the toning up the system spring and summer ness from the mala a river.

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD.

Favorable Report.

NEW YORK, September 27.—R. G. Dun & NEW YORK, September 27.—R. G. Dun & Co., in their weekly review of rade, say:
Busins indications this week are generally favorable. Throughout the northwest colder weather has made trade more active. At the east improving manufactures and heavy export trade stimulate business of all kinds. Exports from New York for four weaks exceed last year's by twenty-five per cent and a like gain elsewhere would mean an excess of exports over imports for the month approaching $9,000,000, for the increase in imports here has been but 3½ per cent. But that excess would not meet the month's allowance for interest, under valuations and freight charges, so that FOREIGN EXCHANGE HAS ADVANCED during the week half a cent. The Bank of England

FOREIGN EXCHANGE HAS ADVANCED during the week half a cent. The Bank of England has raised its rate from four to five per cent, and that bank lost $855,000 for the week, the Bank of France losing also $2,275,000 and the Bank of Germany $2,124,000. These endences of foreign demand, with a low state of reserves at New York, render the mometary future clear, and rates for money have advanced during the week fully one per cent on call, with increasing caution in commercial circles. The treasury has helped during the week by disbursing $210,000 more than it has taken in, and reports from the interior point to

for legitimate needs and no stringency.
Until Thursday the stock market fiad been comparatively inactive, though not declining. But a sharp advance has since appeared, putting the average of prices fully half a dollar higher than a week ago. Reports of foreign buying of securities are irregular but the market seems still mainly confined to professionals, though its advance should indicate stronger confidence as to the monetary future and also as to an early settlement of rates.

Manufacturers are clearly improving. At Boston sales of wool have been 2.9-0,00 less fr the week with prices about steady and the demand is more active. At Philadelphia manufacturers are also buying, though with cautton. No present change is noted in the goods market which, indeed, has been less active since the storm, but there is a growing confidence that AN AMPLE SUPPLY OF MONEY

BUSINESS IS GOING TO IMPROVE.

The demand for iron and steel meets a very large supply and changes in price are all upward. Fig iron can still be had at $16.75 for southern and $17 iron can still be had at $16.75 for southern and $17 for northern No. 1; $16 for No. 2 and $15 for mill; but from $1 to $1.65 more is paid for preferred brands. Blooms have advanced $1. Bar, plate and structural mills are busy, and while $29 is asked for rails at all eastern mills and $30 quoted at Philadelphia, such prices are not established by considerable saies. At Pittsburg $31 50 is quoted and at Chicago $33. The rise from the lowest point has been $3 at the cast, $5 at the west. The scarcity of manganese ore, which has risen $5 at Pittsburg, is an important element.

Coal is rather stronger, but the demand idoes not yet meet the supply. Copper has been a shade stronger abroad but duil here at 11c for lake and the preparation to refine the large anaconda output by the electrolytic process promises to greatly increase the supply of better qualities.

WHEAT HAS RISEN

crease the supply of better qualities.

WHEAT HAS RISEN
2% cents during the week on sales of 24,000,000 bushels, not because of larger foreign demand, but because supplies coming from farms do not grade so well and are not so extensive as expected. The price is tow at b st, but there is nothing as yet to modify the belief that the supply for the year will much exceed all demands. Corn has fallen over half a cent and oats a quarter, with moderate trading. The Liverpool corner in cotton is threatened by a general stoppage of the mills and a rapid movement from American plantations, and port receipts, thus far, exceeding last year's by 180,000 bales, and exports by 54,000, and the price had declined three-sixteenths. Coffee is a quarter lower on sales of 312,000 bags, and oil one cent lower on small trading. Fork products are rather stronger, and butter two cents though the advance for the week has been slight.

Two physicians attended him, but he grew continually worse under their care, and everybody expected he would die. I had heard of the remarkable cures effected by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and decided to have my boy try it. "In May last, my youngest child, fourteen months old, began to have sores gather on its head and body. We applied various simple remedies without avail. The sores increased in number and discharged copiously. A physician was called, but the sores continued to multiply until in a few months they nearly covered the child's head and body. At last we began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a few days a marked change for the better was manifest. The sores assumed a more healthy condition, the discharges were gradually diminished, and finally ceased altogether. The child is livelier, its skin is fresher, and its appetite better than we have observed for rich with the control of and its appetite better than we have ob-served for months."—Frank M. There was a breeze in the senate yesterday yer the amendment to the Atlanta and Lithonia reliroad.

A number of bills had been put up for passage under a suspension of the rules and by mistake this bill with the obnoxious amendment was mixed with them. It came up and was read when Senator Rice, Senator Bartiet and other friends of the bil were in the ante-room.

The committee amendment refuses the new road the use of the Georgia railr-ad track for two miles from the carshed, and practically shut the road out of Atlana.

Mr. dullignon, who was in the chair, was the only friend of the bill who saw what was being done. To pass it would strangle the road, but it must be put to the senate. He beckoned to President Pro. Tem. DuPree to take the chair so he could stop it, but Mr. Du-Pree did not see the motion, and the bill went straight to a vote and was passed with the obnoxious amendment.

coin county bill, moved immediate transmission to the house.

By this time Mr. DuPree reached the chair and Mr. duBignon took the floor and said he would move a reconsideration.

Senator Strother at once raised a racket. Senator duBignon caught the situation and set Senator Strother at rest about his bill.

Then Senator Rice, who had just come in, raised a racket.

Then Senator Rice, who had just come in, raised a racket.

"That bill belongs to my constituents," said he. Senator Wooten made the point of order that Senator S rother's motion had been withdrawn, and there was nothing before the senate.

"I was about to renew it," said Mr. Strother, but he was appeased and stood looking a little dazed, as if he would like to know what would happen next. Meantime Mr. dulignon had explained the situation to Mr. Rice, who yielded the floor to Mr. Bartlett to meke a motion.

if he would like to know what would happen next.

Meantime Mr. du Bignon had explained the situation to Mr. Rice, who y leided the floor to Mr. Bartlett to make a motion.

"The principle involved rises far above Fulton county and the city of Atlanta," said he. "The amendmont which the railroad committee has seen fit to put on this bill is in direct disreserd of the constitution of the state. Charters and charters have been granted like the one asked for, but such a restriction was never put on one before.

"The charter simply gives the right to condemn the track of the Georgia road for two miles, because it is not possible or each the city of Atlanta any other way. Railroads have been given the right to condemn track for forty miles. Shall it be refused because it is the sacred track of the Georgia road? Let not the sink be dry on the bill before we reconsider it, and show that a corporation like this cannot usurp the eminent domain which is guaranted by the constitution.

"The bill was not among those to be taken up under the suspension of rules, and the friends of the measure bappened to be in the ante-room at the time. I think, therefore, contresy and fairness demand that we have a chance to be heard on that amendment. I therefore move that the rules be suspended so that we can reconsider the under the suspension of rules, and the friends of the motion to suspend rules, but he would have in the motion to suspend rules, but he would have in the motion to suspend rules, but he would have in the motion to suspend rules, but he would have in the motion to suspend rules, but he would have in the motion to reconsider.

Senator Rice then urged reconsideration.

"This bill was before the railroad committee; I was present and opposed the amendment. I was called off by a gentleman on business at the moment it came up. I certainly would have opposed the amendment had I been in the room. It was passed before we could get back here."

The senator Bartient ship would have opposed the amendment had I been in the room. It w

Mr. Wooten asked that two members be added to the committee on the Western and Atlan-tic railroad, as the work was very heavy and many members were no able to give it much time on ac-count of their connection with other committees, senators S. R. Harris and Sanford were added. The committee has finished one section of the lease bill and will come near making a new bill of it.

The conference committee report on the Hall resolutions was taken up, and Senator Bartlett moved a non-concurrence, and began vigorously to support his motion, but on Senator Wooten's motion, in view of the thinness of the attendance, it was made the special order for Tuesday immediately after the reading of the journal.

The Girls' Industrial school bill was read the first time and referred to the committee on finance. The regulation bill for Wilkes, which was warring factions of that county have ha To Investigate the Lunatic Asylum. It is not improbable that a commission will be appointed to investigate the funatic asylum with a view to cutting down expenses.

When the penticulary committee's report recom-mending an appropriation of $31,000 came in it was referred to the committee on appropriations and is siow being considered by a sub-committee on ap-propriations.

The sense of this committee seems to be to ask a reduction of this amount and to ask for the appointment of a commission to investigate the lunatic asylum with a view to curtailing expenses. This is not in the nature of a reflection on the officers of the institution but because some of the committee think that the institution is burdened with inebrates who, having been sent there by county authorities cannot well be refused by the officers of the asylum.

authorities cannot well be refused by the officers of the asylung.

The water supply of the institution is a matter needing attention, and it is said to be nece-sary for this as well as for other purposes that a commission consider the matter and map out a policy for the state. It is thought that there may be some retrouchment suggested in the expenses of the institution. The trensurer receives $600 per ann man and some of the committee think a bank would take care of the money without charge.

> Mr. Joe Nix Tells of What He Saw in the Old World-America Leads in Every-

Out of all the Atlantians who made European tours this season none have been closer observers than Mr. Joe Nix, who was a mem ber of Dr. Lee's party.

Mr. Nix looked at the old world as it is, rather than as it was, and every day life and scenes are among his most pleasant recollec-"I am better satisfied than ever with America," he was saying the other day to some friends who were enjoying his reminiscences. "I had always heard of the beauty of English and French women, but let me give you a pointer. You all know that I always have a good eye fer handsome women, but I didn't need it much over there. Why, honestly, there were scarcely any beau-tiful ladies to be seen at all either in Paris or London. Of the two though, I believe the English are the handsomer, and by a great many their robust style is very much admired. Of course, you know, I can't say I didn't see any beauties, for I did, but they were almost invariably American. At the Paris exposition I saw lots of them, and its rather funny, but I could tell an American the minute my eye lit on him. There is something so entirely different from anybody else about an American."

"While you are talking about the expostell us something about our exhibit

"Well, I'll just tell you how it is. Its a characteristic of the American people, that unless they eclipse everybody else, no matter what the obstacles, they are dissatisfied. That's what has caused all the talk you have read about our exhibit being a disgrace to the count is a matter of fact, we haven't any room exick. Our exhibit compares favorably with any other foreign display there, and its only a disposition to want the earth that makes some people talk about it. Before I went over, I read about some fellow saying he couldn't find it at all. I didn't have any trouble in finding it, and in fact, one of the most conspicuous things there, to me, was the stars and stripes waving over Uncle Sam's collection."

most conspicuous things there, to me, was the stars and stripes waving over Uncle Sam's collection."

"Did you see any of the soldiers?"

"Well, I should say so, but they couldn't drill worth looking at. The Gate City Guard could run them off the field in no time. During my stay in London I used to go out every morning to see the red coats drill. Talk about uniforms. The English soldiers take the cake. They're the funniest looking men on earth, and the first time you see them you are tempted to treat yourself to a laugh. They wear flery red coats, with white pants, but the funniest part of the whole rig is the cap and boots. The caps are only about the size of a good sized tin cup, and are tied on the side of their heads by a chin band. Then the big boots set the whole thing off, and you think of a footman or something of that sort every time you see them. But you ought to see the swell soldiers—the royal escort. They are the kell soldiers—the royal escort. They are the kell soldiers—the royal escort. They are the kell soldiers—they know...n American as soon as they see him, and in some places they play the very mischief with his pocketbook if he isn't very sharp. There are people who have lived all their lives off of what is given them by American tourists, for very few are as liberal as we, and everywhere the people imagine that Americans are all millionaries. Well, I was going to tell you about the people in the Black valley, who make their living by waiting on tourists. We were going to the Killarney lakes, and had to walk through this valley about five miles. All the way our party, ten or twelve in all, was followed by about five miles.

Killarney lakes, and had to walk through this valley about five miles. All the way our party, ten or twelve in all, was followed by about twenty women and girls, who carried bottles of goat's milk and poteen. We'd buy some of this occasionally, and sometimes the women would run into the woods and get us fresh water, for which, of course, they expected to be paid. One of these women, and she was pretty good lookieg, they told me that she had never been outside of the Black valley, but had made a living there told me that she had never been outside of the Black valley, but had made a living there from what was given her by tourists."

Mr. Nix took in all the places of interest in Europe. He says that in Venice he spent the most pleasant part of his irip, and while there became very friendly with several of the inhabitants, from whom he has received several letters since his return.

The Cost of City Government.

The necessary cost of a city government is a matter worth looking into. In a recent article on the subject, Mr George W. Elliott, of New York, has given some very interesting facts and figures.

A city of 20,000 inhabitants need no spend more than $100,000 per annum, or five dollars per capita. A city of 100,000 population will find that it will require $1,-000,000 per annum, or ten dollars per capita. In eleven New York cities the cost of government is twelve dollars per capita. In fourteen New England cities the cost is $11.84 per capita.

Now, these figures are taken from the census of 1880. By that census the cost of Atlanta's government was $9.19 per capita, apparently a bad showing, as Atlanta then had a population of only 37,000 in round numbers, and was paying nearly as much per capita as a city of 100,000 people should have paid, if Mr. Elllott's estimate will stand. The fact that Atlanta had to rebuild from the ashes after the war may be accepted as an explanation of the heavy cost of her government.

Indianapolis, with her 125,000 inhabitants, spends less than four dollars per capita for her government and improvements. But no other city has been able to get down to her low figures.

These statistics are based upon the census of 1880. In 1800 there may be many changes to record.

Wall Street Methods.

The mistrial of Ives, the young Napoleon of Wall street, will be variously commented on by the various newspapers of the country, but the facts brought out during his trial, show to a nicety the methods of "bus-Iness" in Wall street. Ferdinand Ward was simply an awkward fakir-and there are others like him still carrying on business-but Ives represents the progress and development of Wall street. There are no friendships in that corrupt thoroughfare. The gamblers that congregate there on the pretence of doing business, are just as ready and as eager to fleece each other as they are to swindle the public. Character, reputation, probity and honor all go for nothing in that seething

Wall street appeared to be greatly shocked when Ives's knavery was discovered, but every trick he played, every forgery he committed, was done in the most approved Wall street style. He set up a "collateral" factory, because a "collateral" is more important in Wall street's eyes than charac-

Wall street made a great outcry when Ives's thievery was discovered; it was virtuously indignant; but this outcry was pretty much of a piece with the attack on the bucket-shops that emanated from that neighborhood. The war on the bucketshops was made on high moral grounds, but everybody knew that the big bucket-shops New York-the exchanges-wanted small bucket-shops out of the way so that they would have no competition in their gambling operations.

Under a Cloud.

The death of Eliza Cook, the other day, recalls a sad life history.

Miss Cook's poetry was at one time very popular, and many of our older readers will readily recollect "The Old Arm Chair," "I'm Afloat," and "The Star of Glengarry. But this unfortunate writer made a fatal mistake at the beginning of her career. She wrote for a paper whose moral tone was low, and she allowed her portrait to be circulated among the masses-a portrait representing her as a pert-looking decollete damsel. Slander at once marked her for a victim, and numerous stories were published about her alleged immorality.

The poor woman tried to live down the slanders. She led a blameless life, but her notoriety made her name common property, and prudish people shunned her to the last. For fifty years she endured all this unmer ited shame, but it was not until she had outlived her contemporaries that she found

Such a life should be a warning to som young women who think it a fine thing to dare and defy public opinion in print and in other ways

Ramie in the South.

It is stated that a number of New Eng land capitalists have organized a stock company which has for its purpose the creation in this country of a demand for the fibre of the ramie plant. The company has already bought 280 tons of the fibre in London, and has contracted in China for 1,000 tons more. The example of this company has already induced a number of manufacturers to offer to contract for twenty tons a day. Another purpose of the New England company, as set forth in the Manufacturers' Record, is to induce the southern landowners to plant ramie. At present there is no market in this country for the fibre, but when the New England company creates a market it rightly infers that planters will be willing to take advantage of it. As another inducement, the company proposes to aid the planter who has a good many acres of ramie by decorticating it without expense to the grower, who will receive the market price for the fibre. There is no doubt that ramie will grow in the south. That fact was definitely settled long ago by the experiments of the late nel Richard Peters on his farm in Gordon county. The plant grew there rankly, and there is no part of the south where it cannot be raised profitably, provided there is a market for it. As an acre will produce 1,500 pounds with three cuttings, and as the market price of the fibre is five ents a pound, there can be no doubt that great trouble heretofore has been the lack of a simple and economicial method of decortication: It was stated recently that a machine had been invented, and that it was controlled by a company in Pittsburg, Pa., which proposed to go into the business. The New England company, however, prooses to take the ramie, decorticate it without expense to the planter, and pay him the market price for the fibre.

At any rate, there is no doubt that ramie can be grown in the south.

A Dead Secret.

The mysterles and miseries of life were never more horribly illustrated than in the story of the fair unknown who perished in the vault of the Catholic church, at Mount Vernon, New York.

Who was this beautiful woman, and what was her secret? Her costume and her face showed that she was a lady. She had money in her purse. Yet for two months this wretched woman locked herself up in a damp and gloomy church vault where she deliberately starved herself to death.

At times the prisoner's longing for a glimpse of something human tempted her to press her white and haggard face against the window where she could watch the children at play. No wonder the youngsters took her for a ghost, and ran away with the cry that the place was haunted!

She died without revealing her secret. Perhaps some temptation overmastered her -perhaps she fled from crime or shameperhaps the fatal gift of beauty was her

The circumstances point to only one explanation. She had sinned, or thought she had sinned, and she starved herself to death in her slimy dungeon. She was doing penance, and she kept her vow.

What an iron will this little woman had!

At any moment she could have opened the door and enjoyed the light of day, liberty and the comforts of life. But she held or to the last. Hunger and the terrors of that uncanny vault could not conquer her. Her purpose never wavered, and when kindhearted strangers found her she was sink ing into the sleep of death, carrying her well-guarded secret with her.

The sorrow-laden and tortured soul has found what it sought—rest!

The Tanner Contract.

Corporal Tanner has one friend that is sticking to him closer than a brother. His name is Private Dalzell, and our readers have no doubt heard of him, for since the war he has been one of the greatest letter writers of the age.

He is now engaged in writing letters about the removal of Tanner, and he doesn't mince matters in the least. He is not moved by considerations of policy, but blurts out what he has to say in the most refreshing manner imaginable.

Speaking of Tanner, Private Dalzell says that "he not only took down the bars of the pension office, and began to promise the surplus pledged last year by the party, but began also to shovel out the surplus according to the contract."

What he says about a contract is apparently said deliberately, for he refers to the matter in another part of his letter, and declares that he has in his possession documentary proof of the contract, and is prepared to give it to the public should the president or any of the republican leaders dare to make denial.

Private Dalzell is not much of a figure as a republican, but he is important enough to give the administration a good deal of trouble, and this is what he seems bent on doing.

It is evident that the country has not heard the last of the Tanner episode.

General Sherman Again. As General Sherman grows older the fact becomes more and more apparent that the streak of crankism which has always been a feature of his temperament has grown to be as big as a horse blanket.

The development of this streak was made manifest when, after the war, he stated under oath before a congressional committee that he had deliberately lied about the burning of Columbia in order to bring Wade Hampton into disrepute with his own people.

The curious thing about this-the point at which crankism developed itself-was not that Sherman lied, or that he confessed it, but that he could bring himself to believe or imagine that anything he might say would injure Wade Hampton with his own people. It was apparent then, as it has been more apparent since, that the relations between General Sherman and common sense are somewhat strained.

Some time ago General Sherman, true to the ferocious and inhuman instincts that guided his march through Georgia, made a speech inciting the negroes of the south to incendiarism, rapine, pillage and murder. It was his purpose to create a sensation. and he did it by shocking the country with sentiments that no clean-minded and patriotic American could entertain for a mo ment.

At the recent meeting of the Army of the Tennessee Sherman made another speech, which is fully and accurately reported in the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette. It is a rambling, disconnected, dull affair, but what it lacks in coherency it makes up for in viciousness. What the old man wants is blood. He is not satisfied with applying the torch to Atlanta and Columbia, and to thousands of homes lying between; on the contrary, he longs for a renewal of the strife, and his cracked voice trembles with hatred and malice whenever the name of the south is mentioned. In the course of his remarks he abjured his audience not to unbuckle their waistbelts too much, and he seemed to chuckle over what he deems the prospect of another civil war. It is a pity-a great pity-that an American soldier who has won distinction in war cannot be a patriot in peace. It is a pity-a great pity-that Tecumseh Sherman is a malignant crank who had called during the day.

Atlanta's citizens, when Atlanta's interest is at stake, are never found wanting, and nothing will add half as much to the exposition as for every store and residence in the city to be decorated as a sign of welcome to the hundreds of thousands of visitors who will visit Atlanta during the exposition. Every store, every resbuilding in the city should be dence, every handsomely decorated, even though it only be a rosette in the gate. Every horse, every wagon, every hack, every whip should be bedecked with ribbons and rlags.

The new deputy commissioner of agriculture will be Mr. J. O. Waddell, of Cedartown.

Judge Henderson offered him the position some days ago, but it was not until yesterday that the matter was definitely settled, and Mr. Waddell telegraphed that he would accept.

All his life, Mr. Waddell has been a practical planter on a large scale. He understands the necessities of a farmer from beginning to end and he has a fund of scientific knowledge to assist him in the disonarge of his new duties.

Mr. Waddell is at present the first vice-president of the Georgia Agricultural society. He was one of the Georgia farmers who recently visited Ohio. Judge Henderson says that he feels sure he has secured the right man for the place and the appointment will give general satisfaction.

"NAPOLEONIC STRATEGY,"

OR THE KNIGHTS OF THE OLIVE BILL IN CAUCUS.

[An imaginary report of some actual concuses.] Note.—It has been repeatedly announced by exclied organs of the "Olive bill" stripe that the various defeats the bill has so far sustained hava really not been defeats, but were "Napoleonia Strategems," and were victories in disguise for the friends of the measure. It may be so, but the public does not look at it in that way.

RAILROAD NOTES.

Colonel C. W. Chears, general passenger agent of the Georgia Midiand and Gulf road, with headquarters at Columbus, was in Atlanta yesterday.

Mr. Steve Johnson, of the Queen and Cres-ent route, left town yesterday to visit Macon.

It is reported among railroad men that a new ticket agency will be started October 1st. Rumor has it that the Central road and the West Point road will be jointly interested in the new ticket agency and Mr. Wilson, of the West Point road, will be in charge. An entirely new railroad was discovered in Georgia yesterday. The comptroller-general's of-fice received the taxes of a corporation named the Winterville and Pleasant Hill road. It was discov-ered on inquiry that the new road is six miles long, that it belongs to Mr. James M. Smith, is valued at $23,670 and has been built within the last year. The taxes amounted to $94.63.

Speaks on Colonization and the Race Question

Professor R. R. Wright, a prominent colored n, spoke on Colonization of the Negro at the Third Congregational church last night. A large number of colored people and a few whites attended the meeting.

whites attended the meeting.

The speaker began by reference to Fred Douglas, quoting from him the words, "The negro must be measured by the depths from which he came rather than by the heights to which he has attained."

Then touching on the race problem, he said; "But, it must be remembered, that if a condict should happen, it would not perhaps terminate as happily as the whites think. When all the blacks are gathered together they may be able to hold their own. Besides our own race, we have the Mexicans and Chinese to back us. What could the white race do with all these leagued against u?"

"Talk about colonizing the nearro. Why, while Africa is very fertile, it would not be noticed as an outlet for our surplus population until we numbered one hundred million. Africa is the place for European emigrants, not negroes. The negro belongs here."

They had done much to advance the interest of this country, and had already acquired $221,000,000 worth of property.
"They are going to stay here," he said, in spite of the advice of Baptist preachers for them to emigate. The negroes are not dying off. In a hundred years from now there will be 192 000,000 of them. What will the whites do then? Down the Thomas country they increase 32% percent while in Thomas county they increase 33% per cent, while the whites only increase 33% per cent, while the whites only increase 8. Those who say we are not growing morally don't know what they are talking about. Piofessor Wright closed by saying: "Cease this futor about social equality, and let taste direct. Everywhere except here color is no bar to admission to any circle."

The Rev. Dr. Hawthone arrived in Atlanta yesterday, and will leave again today.

The First Baptist church is undergoing repairs and is in such a condition that it would be impossible for Dr. Hawthone to meet the immense congregation that would gather to welcome his return tomorrow. A week from tomorrow, however, the repairs will be completed, and Dr. Hawthone will preach to his former congregation.

A special musical programme is in preparation to celebrate Dr. Hawthorne's return. The entire service at the First Baptist church tomorrow week will be impressive and interesting.

Alabama infantry and Georgia cavairy service during his term. He is still suffering from a wound inflicted by a minnie ball, which struck him in the leg during the bettles around Atlanta.

In 1856 he was elected as a member of the police force, and in 1878 he resigned for five years, working on a farm during that period.

In 1875 he was again elected a member of the force, and stood in his place through the times when brickbats and krives were a part of the recompense of the patrolmen.

In 1881 he was elected captain of police without opposition and without being a candidate.

In April, 1885, he resigned again, and accepted the position of special county balliff, under Hon. Howell Glenn, who was then solicitor.

In April, 1887, two years afterwards, he was again elected captain of police, and at the solicitation of many friends, he accepted that position, and has been senior captain ever since.

He was never even reprimanded for a single official act during his long career.

Captain Couch resigned his place yesterday because he was offered a better position, the present pay, eighty-five dollars a month, being fifteen dollars less than he is able to command in his new position.

He has been a faithful official, and in his new capacity will be of benefit to Fulton county.

Mr. W. T. Arnold, of Atlanta, was the successful bidder, his contract being five thousand dollars.

The contract calls for the erection of two eightroom residences, with all the modern conveniences. One is for the agriculturist, Mr. Kimbrough, of Harris county, and the other is for the horticulturist, Mr. Charies Speth, of Augusta.

Work will be began at once, and by the first day of December the buildings will be ready for occupancy, if the agreement is fulfilled. Mr. W. H. Parkins is the architect and superintendent of the work. His plans are very convenient, and the site for the buildings has been to selected that when the park is laid off and finished they will be on either side of the main entrance. Director Redding's residence is just between the two, and when everything is put in shape the effect will be decidedly artistic.

The two new buildings will be of wood, with an interior finish of Georgia pine. The work of putting in a large new hydraulic ram is already under way. This will supply the buildings, and the whole place, with water.

The agriculturist and horticulturist, with their families, are temporarily quartered on the farm.

These two buildings are all that will be erected this year, but it is purposed to erect another building for the director and the offices of the station.

The committee's session may extend over two or three days, and may be concluded in one day. Several matters of importance will be considered, but the most of the time will probably by given to a consideration of the suggestion to the farmer to hold his cotton and not put it upon the market.

By some the assault was condemned, by others it was justified upon "genera! principles" as was said.

Captain Conley was in the city and looked about like he did when he loomed up in the Kimball arcade Thursday night. He felt sore, but not at all tired, so he said. His wounds are painful and give him some trouble, but not much. He talked freely with all his friends and declared that he could clean out the entire

"Why," said he, "if I could have gotten one of those guns, Jim Avary's jury would not have had any trouble in determining by whose hands somebody died. There would have been 'no death by unknown hands' in that coroner's jury verdlet I promise Jim. If they'd give me a chance I'll whip all three and let the town see me do it."

The Messrs. Arnold were about the city as usual. In their offices and upon the street they displayed their usual affable and pleasant manners. Colonel Rube Arnold was never more graceful and easy in his gestures, or polished in his speech, than when discussing the fight with his friends. Mr. Frank Arnold spoke of the affray with his accustomed caution and expressed his satisfaction at the result. Like his nephew he denied emphatically that he ever intended to use the gun upon Captain Couley.

The grand jury, it is said, had the matter up yesterday and made an investigation, but nothing positive could be ascertained. It is asserted, however, that true bills were found against the three gentlemen, in which they was charged with assault to kill, and that warrants were issued upon these indictments and earned ergets and honds on $\frac{1}{2}

But none of this could be verified.

Stocks as Reported at the New York Stoc

Exchange.

New York, September 27.—The stock market was more active today, and displayed more characteristics than in months and dealings wer attended by much excitement. The final result of the day's operations, however, as far as the regula list is concerned, were generally only fractional. The feeling this morning was very hopeful, and the number of stocks traded in during the first hour's business being larger than at any time this year while the volume of business was in a correst year while the volume of business was in a corres ponding scale. Local bull leaders were more active and the increase in the number of orders execute for outside delivery was marked. Missouri Pacific was a leader in early trading and it was soon fol was a leader in early trading and it was soon followed by Lackawanna, C. C. C. and St. Louis, and some others, while Manhattan continued its upward march favorable on rumors. Pullman also displayed unusual strength on light dealings and Michigan Central joined the procession.

Sugar trusts were still weak and made a material decline in the forenoon which extended to about 3 per cent, but it seemed to have little or no effect upon the regular list, as no reason could be assigned for the decline and the rest of the market was effectually diverted from its movements, Atchinson was unfavorably affected by a uglier move, was enectually diversed from the movements. At-chinson was unfavorably affected by au uglier move, it being stated that the financial plan for the reha-bilitation of the company, would prove a failure, and it dropped over four per cent. Trusts which had given signs of support, went down again and itsex reme loss was 8½ per cent. These movements ats ex reme loss was 5% per cent. These movements created great une-siness in the room, and the pressure to sell extended to all portions of the list, and before delivery hour all advances of the forenon were wiped out, and in most cases fractional losses in addition, were sustained.

The stocks of the morning, such as Jersey Central, The stocks of the morning, such as Jersey central, Manhattan, Missouri Pacific, Lackawanna and Delaware and Hudson, dropped rapidly, while others kept pace, and in every case the opening figures were passed on the downward movement. The selling craze came to a halt toward delivery hour, selling craze came to a halt toward delivery hour, and a reaction begun which made some progress, notwithstanding the fact that money on call was bid up to 10 per cent. The activity disappeared from the market, however, and the movements became limited to small fractions, though in the case of Manitoba the most pronounced strength was developed, and it rose 2½ per cent. Manhattan, Jersey Central and Deleware and Hudson railied sharply and sugar rose from 87% to 90 and Atchison from 34% to 36. The improvement in most of the list was alight, however, and the tone of the market at the close was unsettled and rather heavy.

alight, however, and the tone of the market at the close was unsettled and rather heavy.

Final charges are quite 'fregular, while declines are rather more numerous but generally confined to small fractions. Sugar, however, is down 6½ and cotton oil and Short Line 1 each, and Atchison 3.

The important advances include Manitoba and Manhattan, each 3, and Jersey Central and Lake Erie and Western preferred, each 1 per cent.

strong, and spinners resisted the movement with all the material available, making as small purchases as possible. Spots declined 1-16d. Present Liverpool stocks, with addition of what is affoat for that point and London of American and India cotton amount to 533,000 bales, including 316,000 bales. American, as against $77,000 bales last year, of which 229,06 bales were American. We are in receipt of a cable from cur Liverpool correspondents saying that the October short time movement, inaugurated by the various spinners throughout England has collapsed, owing to the large contracts for yarns covering the proceeds from now until March, which are uncovered. The mills will resume operations Tuesday. This virtually removes all obstacles, and it is probable that Streetstrand will accomplish his most sanguine expectations. In this market the fears of probable that Streetstrand will accomplish his most sanguine expectations. In this market the fears of a September corner overshadowed everything, and rather paralyzed business. That there was quite a short interest became apparent early in the week, and as purchases for short accounts a 100 feed sellers became scarce, and on Friday feel sellers became scarce, and on Friday feel last day for trading in this option, priors and up from 11.30 to 11.55, the range for the feel week being from 10.986/11.65. The other markets say sympatized to a considerable extent and the same advance. The weather 200 feel for the first part of the week was rainy and cool, which stimulated the market for a few days, but the continued free receipts at the ports a diayed any uneasy feeling among the shorts and caused some longs to sell out their holdings. There is some apprehension of a squeeze in October, as there is quite a short interest, but receipts are ree and will probably continue up to the estimate, and as prices are remunerative to the producer, and the weather most favorable, we do not see why there will not be cotton enough to meet all reasonable demands. During the week foreign houses have been large buyers for all months, but the entire business for the week has been exceedingly light, and fluctuations not sufficient to attract much speculation. Spots have been dealt in to a limited extent, and show a decline of 1-16c during the week. Our Fall River branch telegraphs that middling is offered from the south free by at 10% c, prompt shipments, with small lots as low as 13% (10%. The mills are buying very spartingly. Port receipts for the week will aggregate 18,000 bales, against 128,232 bales last year.

In their cotton circular today, say: Liverpool closes today steady at about 1-6ic decline, while New York and our market is unchanged, with the exception of one point decline in October here. Trading was again limited, and considering the weak condition of our spot market futures held very steady. It must be represent that the area. very steady. It must be remembered that the pres-ent price for October is the same as when spot cotwas 3-16@% to higher. This in itself looks to us element of strength that month shorts show re disposition to cover their October contracts, more disposition to cover their October contracts, and the general impression seems to be that exporters will come into the market freely on a basis of 10½ 10½ 10½ 10 middling, and should the market decline to those prices, "which seems now very probable," on a basis of 10½ 10 middling cotton, we still have a discount on October, not warranted by the situation, and if the demand for f. o. b. 11b-craily offered, but sellers generally do not seem to appreciate that we are now working on a declining basis, and as our spot market is being marked down daily the prices which they ask in the morning seem high later in the day. Some sales were made on the basis of 5-160 to middling early this norning, but could not be duplicated at ½ clower. 10½ for good middling, to arrive early next week, is about the present value of f. o. b.

THE CHICAGO MARKET. Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, September 27—The seculative trade in wheat was of a large volume today, but the market was very unsettied and irregular, prices fluctuating frequently and rapidly. The opening was weak and 1/20/20 ff, the weakness starting really on the curb. Steady, light clearances gave the market a decidedly bear turn just at the finish. The final closing figures were 11/20/15/20 lower for today, September and the more deferred futures showing greater weakness comparatively than October and December.

greater weakness comparatively than October and December.

A fair speculative trade was witnessed in the corn market, and the feeling developed was a little firmer. Trading was in the main local, the principal teature being the heavy seiling of October and buying of December by prominent local traders, which narrowed the difference, and were selling at times at nearly the same price. The market opened at yesterday's closing prices, was firm, and gradually advanced ½c, ruled steady and closed with the near months at the same and the off months ½c higher than yesterday.

The oats market was without new features. The trading was light and mainly for May delivery. Very few outside orders were received to buy, and a quiet and steady feeling prevailed.

Moss pork—Only a fait trade was reported. The prices ruled 10%12½c higher early, but an unsettled feeling prevailed later, and prices received to buy, and a continuous continuou

THE LAW ABOUT STIFFS. MR. BANKIN, OF GORDON, LEADS AN ATTACK

On the Dead Body Statute-The Glenn Bill for County Taxation of Railroads Comes Up and Senate Amendments Agreed to.

The present law by which certain unclaimed dead bodies are turned over to medical colleges for scientific purposes, introduced by Mr. Candler, of DeKalb, and passed in 1887, was the subject of a spirited debate yesterday in

Mr. Rankin, of Gordon, leads the fight for the repeal of the law.

Mr. Candler, the author of the original bill, leads the other side. The discussion was forced yesterday by the The discussion was forced yesterday by the report of the committee on general judiciary, Mr. Rankin's bill, to repeal the present law, came back from that committe with an adverse report. Mr. Rankin moved to disagree to the report. He argued at some length. The present law, he argued, was unjust because poor people only were liable to be turned over to medical students. Many people that went to the pententiary, were unfortunate rather than morally guity—it was unfair to say that nobody but brutes and fiends were dissected. Colonel Jones, of Baker, interrupted.

"I want to know," said the irrepressible First

"I want to know," said the irrepressible First Bale Man, "if the gentleman from Gordon is pposed to cemeteries?"
The house smiled audibly.

Mr. Rankin explained that he was not op-posed to cemeteries—he thought they were useful institutions.

"Then what makes you do this way?" asked the colonel seriously.

"What makes you—you know what I'm talking about. What makes you—" The colonel's explanation was interrupted, at this point, by prolonged applause.

Mr. Candler showed that his bill protected cemeteries in two ways—first, by making grave robbery a felony; second, by giving the medical colleges a legitimate income of this sort, and thus doing away with the necessity of breaking the law. Under the old law "body breaking the law. Under the old law "body snatching" was a regular profession, and it paid well. No grave, except in the city cemeteries, which were under police protection, was safe. The robbing was indiscriminate. Nearly all other states had made the offense a felony, and because it was not a felony in Georgia and the hyena like occupation a compartively safe one, bodies were actually taken from graves in Georgia were actually taken from graves in Georgia and shipped to distant states. The colleges were compelled to furnish a limited number of bodies, and what better than to define and control the method in which the bodies were

The yeas and nays were called, and the bill to repeal was lost. Mr. Rankin gave notice that at the proper time he would move to reconsider the action of the house.

County Taxation of Railroads. The Glenn bill, relating to the county taxation of railroads, with the senate amendments. came back to the house yesterday for final ac-

These amendments were all agreed to.

Mr. Hart, of Greene, offered an amendment that railroads should not be liable to the tax in any county until they had been operated in that county for five years. This, he said, would encourage the building of new railroads, and after all the counties would gain instead of lose.

and after all the counties would gain instead of lose.

Mr. Simmons, of Sumter, spoke in favor of the amendment. He laughed at Mr. Glenn's "constitutional" objection to the amendment.

"When a member of the legislature wants to pose as a deep thinker and a wise man nowa days," said he, "he wears spectacles and denounces everything as unconstitutional."

Mr. Glenn spoke against the proposed amendment, and took occasion to "hit back" at Mr. Simmons. It was cleverly done.

"The gentleman from Sumter," said he, "has spoken. He has used his voice—vox of preterea nihil—his voice and nothing more."

Mr. Lewis, of Hancock, and Mr. Harrell, of Webster, favored the amendment, and Mr. Candler, of DeKalb, opposed it.

Mr. Humphreys, of Brooks, favored the amendment.

The voge stood fifty-two for, and seventy-six amendment.

The vote stood fifty-two for and seventy-six against the amendment. This left the bill exactly as it came from the senate and substantially as its author originally introduced it, What About Inebriates?

What About Inebriates?

An important bill was introduced yesterday by Dr. Felton, of Bartow.

It is the embodiment of this section in the report of the committee on lunatic asylum, of which Dr. Felton is chairman:

"We find in the institution quite a number who were committed as inebriates. Many of them should be discharged. We recognize this as an unfortunate class, but their condition is the result of their own acts, and it is within their power to renulted as the state of their own acts, and it is within their power to renulted as the state of their own acts, and it is within their power to renulted as the state of their own acts, and it is within their power to renulted as the state of the stat der their stay there unnecessary. Should no other cause for their retention exist, we recommend that this class be discharged, together with those ad-dicted to the option habit, thus making room for others more unfortunate."

dicted to the opium habit, thus making room for others more unfortunate."

The bill introduced yesterday is to repeal the law which allows incbriates to be sent and kept there at public expense.

This will be followed, it is understood, by a resolution to discharge all incbriates now in the asylum at Milledgeville.

This movement, so legislative comment goes, shows more than ever the necessity for a separate institution for the reception of incbriates. This is the object of a bill introduced at the beginning of the session by Mr. Venable, of Fulton, and brightens the prospects for the final passage of that measure.

Scene-First Dinner to the Family Physican by Young Married Couple.

FAMILY PHYSICIAN—Do you know, there seems to be a natural flavor about this food that is most appetizing? What method do you use in cooking it?

LADY OF THE HOUSE—Well, Doctor, when I was at home, my mother would have no other than a Charter Oak Stove. From my earliest recollection I remembered how she would praise it, and her cooking was superb. So when we were married I insisted on having the same kind of stove. Of course the improvements made on them since mother bought hers, are most wonderful. Ours has all the latest, including the Wire Gauze Oven Doors. I don't understand the process exactly, but they tell me that all meats cooked in ovens with these doors, retain their juices and flavors to a much greater degree than by any other means. Can you explain the theory, Charles?

CHARLES (the Husband)—I can't remember all that was told me, but I know the Doctor can give a most clear and scientific statement of the reasons, can you not Doctor?

DOCTOR—Well, it is hardly professional to ask such information from a doctor; in fact, I am inclined to think he would not be helping his practice much by saying anything in favor of the Charter Oak Stoves. But as I have one in my kitchen, and know something about it, I think I can enlighten you. Of course it would take quite a long lecture to explain everything to you scientifically, and we have not time for that. Count Rumford, an American, who was Knighted in Europe for his scientific attainments, pointed out, nearly a hundred years ago, that baking and roasting meats in air tight ovens was wrong, and he proved it by actual experiments. He asserted that it was as essential to health that our food should be cooked in pure, fresh air as that we should breathe pure, fresh air, and that air-tight ovens render the air impure, and the food cooked therein became tainted and unhealthy. But how to properly ventilate the oven was not discovered for many years after Count Rumford's time. The difficulty was to allow fresh air to enter the oven uniformly without cooling it percept

GIVEN A HOLIDAY

TO SEE THE PIEDMONT EXPOSITION OPENING DAY.

The Board of Education Convenes in Regu-lar Session—The Committees Make Relar Session—The Committees M ports and the Reports Adopted.

Thirteen members of the board of education came together in regular monthly session in Superintendent Slaton's office in the Girls' High school building, yesterday afternoon.

But no one was afraid of that old thirteen

But no one was afraid of that old thirteen story.

Hon. W. A. Hemphill, president of the board, presided, and Messrs. Thomson, Roach, Kontz, Moran, Lowry, Hammond, Bray, Beattie, Mayer, Smith and Bishop and Mayor Glenn were in attendance.

The regular order of business was suspended and Mr. Smith, of the committee on teachers' submitted a report showing that:

Miss Jordan, a teacher in the Walker street school, had resigned, and that Miss Clark, assistant teacher in the Crew street school, had been recommended for the vacancy.

Miss Mattie Henderson was recommended as assistant teacher for the Crew street school.

"In submitting this report," said Mr. Smith, "we desire to say that Miss Clark is one of the oldest supernumerary teachers in the city, the oldest supernumerary teachers in the city, and is thoroughly indorsed by the principal of the grammar school, where she has been serving, as well as by the superintendent. We don't indorse the idea of promoting a supernumerary from one school to regular position in another, and later in the year would not do in another, and later in the year would not do so. But just now we can't see any hurt."

The committee then recommended that a musical director for the school system be engaged, and that the salary be the same as that paid the principals of the grammar schools.

"The committee, however," said Mr. Smith, "cannot recommend any one for the position, as we could not ask for applicants without knowing what we could pay."

Mr. Lowry thought the proposed salary too high.

high.
Mr. Hammond agreed with Mr. Smith as to the salary.

"I am for singing in the schools," sasd Mr.
Lowry, "but I hardly think we can afford it this year, and especially if we are to make the salary as large as Mr. Smith suggests. I think we ought to get a good man for $1,000 or $1,200.

"But wend as the school of the salary as large as man for $1,000 or $1,200.

"But you agree with us, Mr. Lowry, that we need one?" asked Mr. Hammond.
"Oh, yes," was the answer.
Mr. Hammond then argued in favor of the salary proposed by Mr. Smith, asserting that Mr. Lowry's figures would not secure a good

Mr. Lowry's figures would not secure a good man.

"What is the condition of the school fund?" asked President Hemphill.

Mr. Lowry said that he could not give the exact information because his clerk, who had been in charge of the books was sick.

Mr. Roach thought Mr. Lowry's figure big enough pay for the work.

Mr. Beattle said the task would be a big one, and favored a good man with a good salary.

The motion to make the salary the same as that of the grammar school principals was adopted, and the committee was instructed to find a suitable director.

"And when we do," said Mr. Smith, "we will cause the president to call the board together so that we may act,"

Mr. Hammond, of the committee on text books, stated that his committee had examined some charts, astronomical and geographical, but wanted more time.

An anatomical chart was resting in one corner of the room, and Mr. Lowry crossed over, raising the cover, exposed a complete human skeleton.

"That don't look like an astronomical chart, does it?" he asked, laughing.

skeleton.
"That don't look like an astronomical chart, does it?" he asked, laughing.
His associates appreciated the joke and laughed.
"Here on the back," said Mr. Lowry, "is something about the alcohol and cigarette habit. I suggest that it be sent to Senator Johnson. The stars ain't got any business with this."
Everybody laughed again, including Mr.

Everybody laughed again, including Mr. Mayer.

Mr. Smith declared that he thought the encyclopedia the Girls' High school has requested more important than the charts.

"But," said he, "I move that it all be referred to the committee on text books and supplies to ascertain just what is needed and report it to this body so that we can supply them with all that we deem necessary."

The motion prevailed.

Superintendent Slaton submitted his report for the month of September. It was quite interesting.

"The schools," said the report, "all opened on the second of September, with largely increased numbers. From the principal's reports sent in today, I gather the following:

partment for the month, including salaries to be $8,887.54.

Mr. Beattie, of the committee on buildings and school property, stated that a fence had been built around the Gray street school.

Mr. Moran, of the committee on grievances, recommended that Master Agricola, who had been suspended from the Falr grammar school, be reinstated.

Mayor Glenn asked the board to declare the Piedmont exposition opening day a holiday so that all the school children could attend.

"Why that day?" asked Mr. Smith, "will it be a good day for the children?"

"Of course it will," said Mayor Glenn, "the children are not going out to see the machinery. They are going to see the Indians."

President Hemphill smiled.

Mr. Lowry was with Mayor Glenn.
"Oh, the children don't have many ho lidays any how," said Mayor Glenn.
"They have too many," said Mr. Smith.
"Holidays demoralize school children. Suppose we close at the long recess—eleven o'clock that is."

Mr. Bray was with Mayor Glenn and Mr.

"The circus is going to pitch its tent near the Boulevard school," said Mr. Thompson,
"Don't you think we'd better give them children that day."

"Yes, give 'em that day," said Mr. Lowry.
"I wouldn't give a cent for a boy who wouldn't run away from school to go to a circus."

The opening day was granted but not the

The opening day was granted but not the circus day.

Mr. Bray, of the committee on examination of a teachers, submitted his report. The first clause suggested a change of rule twenty-five whereby the printing of questions for examinations would be done away with and the question concluded and placed upon the board by the committee on the day of examination.

Mr. Smith opposed the changes.

Mr. Kontz moved that the changes be placed in the hands of the superintendent and that they be made the special order of another meeting. It was done.

A Popular Grocer on Peachtree Street Offer $25.00 For the Best Loaf of Bread Made of

Mr. J. J. Duffy, one of the most popular retail grocers in the country, comes to the front this morning and offers $25 for the best loaf of this morning and offers $25 for the best loaf of bread made out of Duffy's Superlative flour, and exhibited at the coming Piedmont exposition. This is quite a liberal offer, and will, no doubt stimulate a great many people in the culinary line. The flour that Mr. Duffy has been selling—Duffy's Superlative—is said by those who have tried it, to be the very best. This being the case, Mr. Duffy, in making this offer to the ladies of Atlanta, will doubtless secure a large patronage for his flour. It is to be remembered that this loaf of bread is to be made only from Duffy's Superlative, and no other flour will be brought into competition. Mr. Duffy is not afraid to compete with other flours, but feeling that his flour is the best of all, offers $25 as a prize to the one making the finest loaf of bread out of it.

it.

It might be added in this connection that Mr. Duffy has been styled one of the leading retail grocers of Georgia. He keeps everything that is usually kept in a grocery store, and sells his goods at a reasonable profit. Being located on one of the finest streets in the city, Peachtree, he has a fine trade among the best class of people.

Now young ladies and old ladies, all who cook and all who eat, remember that Mr. Duffy offers the handsome sum of $25 for the best loaf of bread made out of Duffy's Superlative flour, exhibited at the exposition company. The company will appoint judges to

Do you suppose it would be possible, with a sufficient number of men, to build a fine Reed Organ all compite in seven hours? 'No doubt it would, but it would certainly require a large force of skilled men to do it. Now, if the Estey Organ company had taken so long, a time as seven hours they would have had to begun before Columbus discovered America in order to complete 200,000 organs in 1888. They have actually been building their famous Reed Organs forty years, averaging about one organ in thirty-five minutes. And not building them only.

They have sold them. No other organ can show such sales. What does it prove? Simply that the ESTEY Organ is the favorite, that it is the best value for the money vested, that it has been the choice with the majority of persons who have purchased organs. You can't make any mistake in choosing an ES-TEY, for the great majority is with you. Go to the ESTEY Organ Co.'s ware-rooms, corner
